GOOD QUESTIONS

Everything, answered

The things couples ask before they reserve.

01 Do you really travel anywhere?

Yes. Travel is built into every collection, all fifty states, no mileage math. If your day is happening, we will be there.

02 How far out should we book?

Most couples reserve nine to eighteen months ahead; peak Saturdays go first. A signed agreement holds the date, an inquiry alone does not.

03 Photo, film, or both?

Both, if the budget allows. Photos hold the details; film holds the voices. The Photography & Film collections are priced so choosing both is the easy call, and they include an engagement session.

04 How many images do we get?

A full wedding delivers several hundred fully edited images, every keeper rather than a teaser set, in a private online gallery you can download and share.

05 When is everything delivered?

Sneak peeks within days; the complete gallery and films on the date written in your agreement. We hit our dates.

06 Do we get the raw footage?

Yes. Raw footage is included with every film collection and delivered alongside your edited films.

07 What if you have never shot our venue?

Then we scout it before the wedding: light, sound, logistics. The day itself has zero improvisation.

08 How do we reserve our date?

Choose a collection at olivialaynestudios.com/book and sign online; your date is held. Pay in full at the listed price, or add $500 for the plan: 50% at signing, the balance two weeks before the wedding.

RESERVE YOUR DATE

Two ways to book

Nothing is charged until your agreement is signed.

01

Pay in full

The listed price. Every collection is $500 less when paid at signing, and nothing further is due.

02

Payment plan

Add $500 to any collection. Put 50% down at signing; the balance is charged two weeks before the wedding.
